aya John and Marilyn,

It was great seeing both of you at the Miami Reunion last Sunday. I had a wonderful time talking to lots of people. I felt so at home with old friends. I am sending Angie Quinn more information I mentioned at our meeting with her.

Here's the info on my talk at the Wabash County Historical Museum. It is located at 36 East Market Street, Wabash. The time is noon on Thursday, Sept. 22nd. I will tell about my research and a little on modern Miami history. I will be showing the 14 minute film "Being Miami," made for the Eiteljorg exhibit back in the 1990s. I think the film shows Miami people speaking for themselves and gives a good history that the people in Wabash will learn from.

I hope several Miami people come. I don't have Brian's e-mail. John, can you pass this info on to him? It will be announced in local newspapers and maybe you can send an e-mail to tribal members.

If you have any suggestions or questions, let me know. The museum will have copies of the new book, "Native Americans" and I will sign copies after the talk for a few minutes.

Take care,

Stewart
